1. Who is eligible for the Red Onion IRP

   For the initial pilot of the Red Onion Intensive Reentry Program (IRP), inmates that score Moderate or High Risk on the General Recidivism Scale of the COMPAS Assessment and were within 7-20 months of release were selected for participation.

   Going forward, inmates will need to have 12 - 18 months left to serve and score Moderate or High Risk on the General Recidivism Scale of the COMPAS Assessment. For this high security IRP pilot there are 22 single cell beds. Two of them are for peer mentors who assist with the program rather than participate.

2. How an incarcerated person is considered, including whether the person must apply, request consideration, be referred, or is automatically screened

   The inmate does not need to apply. Inmates are screened automatically to see if they meet the criteria for IRP. The VADOC Screens inmates based on the eligibility criteria previously mentioned. Inmates that score Moderate or High Risk on General Recidivism Scale on the COMPAS Assessment and are within 12-18 months of release are eligible.

3. The requirements used to select participants

   The requirements are that inmates are Moderate or High Risk on General Recidivism Scale on the COMPAS Assessment and are within 12-18 months of release. The exception is the 2 peer mentors who remain in the program to assist.

4. How priority is determined when space is limited

   All releasing VADOC inmates receive reentry planning. IRP inmates are selected if they meet the eligibility criteria by remaining time until release and COMPAS score. Based on this, a waiting list has been compiled for this 20 bed IRP.

5. Any exclusions or reasons a person may be ineligible

   For the Red Onion intensive reentry program exclusions include:

   - Ice detainers
   - Current placement in the Restorative Housing Unit could exclude a participant at the time of placement / bed availability.

6. Whether Level 6 and Level S individuals are eligible and whether additional requirements apply

   At this time, only security level 5 inmates may participate. Level 6 and Level S individuals are offered alternate step-down reentry services.

7. What an incarcerated person must do to be considered or enter the program

   They do not need to take any action. The screening for program placement is automatic and based on general recidivism score of the COMPAS and remaining time to serve as discussed above. It is noted that the new program has limited bed availability of 22 single cells with 2 beds being allocated to peer mentors.

   Because this program is pilot. It has not been added to policy. Formalization of the final program policy will be determined based on the results of the pilot.
